

A high-contrast, black and white photograph of Tom Waits. He is leaning forward, singing into a vintage-style microphone. He has curly hair and is wearing a dark suit jacket over a light-colored shirt. A bright light source, possibly a stage lamp, is positioned directly in front of the microphone, creating a strong glare and illuminating his face and the microphone. The background is dark and out of focus, with a large speaker visible behind him.

TOM WAITS

Who the hell is Tom Waits? Some croaking vegas big shot with newspaper clippings or just your average with a voice that nags like your worst hangover? Born Thomas Alan Waits on the 7th of December, 1949 and with a piano by his side the world was about to become his oyster. Raised in California following his parents divorce he moved to National city near the Mexican border with his mother and sisters. From there on travel and culture, as well as the odd culture, gave him the background that was to form the basis of his songs. Tom's big break came in 1972 when he was spotted playing live by Herb Cohen, the then manager to the likes of Frank Zappa, Captain Beefheart and Alice Cooper, and was promptly signed to Asylum Records. It is now some twenty years on and fourteen albums later, plus all the movie roles and collaborations, that the world can see the full worth of Tom Waits, but still many people, when asked about Tom Waits, answer "who?". But in their lifetime they have stumbled upon his talent in one form or other, with the likes of Bruce Springsteen, Rod Stewart, Marianne Faithful and the Eagles having covered such classic Waits tunes such as "Downtown Train", "Jersey Girl", "Heartattack and Wine" and "Tom's Turbulent Blues" to name but a few. They may also have caught him unknowingly on the silver screen with his appearances in classic films such as "Paradise Alley", with Sylvester Stallone, "The Cotton Club", with Bob Hoskins and Richard Gere, "Rumblefish", "Ironweed", with Jack Nicholson, and the most recent film being Francis Ford Coppola's version of "Dracula". There is no sell-out with Tom Waits, what you see, and what you hear, is what you get. A master at work. A man full of unusual ideas and observations who most definatly is goin' out west and beyond.
